Restricting the Vote

Probably it was inevitable that sooner or later someone in Arkansas would advance the theory that Alex. H. Washburn, editor-publisher of the Hope Star, has now brought forward: That we should undo 150 years of history by commencing to restrict the franchise.

Mr. Washburn now says that those on the welfare rolls should be stripped of the right to vote, on the ground that their voting involves "representation without taxation." We fail to see how even the smallest welfare check escapes the reach of the sales tax. Mr. Washburn fought so hard a few years back. Perhaps in Hempstead County they have found an all-encompassing substitute for store-bought and sales-taxed food and clothing; if so, Mr. Washburn might assist the rest of us.

Neither can we accept any premise that most of those on welfare lists are lolling in the splendors of the social welfare state. Their small checks may keep the wolf from the door but are scarcely sufficient to attract the strong and the able for long if more rewarding pursuits are available. We cannot believe, for example, that the aid extended to the helpless aged or the dependent child is less than society's minimal responsibility. We cannot believe that many of these recipients genuinely prefer their place on the roster of society's dependant.

Admittedly, there have been abuses. Governor Faubus and Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams have shown no compunction about using the welfare program for political purposes. Such acts as Mr. Adams' instructional letters sent out just before elections are to be deplored. But the fault is not in the innocent, but in those who exploit the humanitarian functions society has long since assumed.

So, where there are political abuses, let us tighten the regulations barring the welfare program's involvement in politics. There are, moreover, improvements which should be made in the welfare programs. Professional social workers should be less encumbered by red tape in carrying out their assignments, but at the same time protected against political pressures exerted by elected officials.

Thus, while we are as opposed as Mr. Washburn to the machinations in the administration of the welfare programs, we must object to the remedy he prescribes. Universal suffrage is a basic element of democracy. If reform in welfare is demanded, then it must begin with the real offenders and not those exploited.

Clothes Bring Living Costs Much Higher

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for new fall lines of clothing pushed living costs to a record high in September.

The Labor Department reported today that its index rose two-tenths of 1 per cent between August and September to 128.3 per cent of the 1947-49 base period.

Clothing prices, rising more than seasonally, were up 1.1 per cent from the late-summer bargains of August.

Robert J. Myers, deputy commissioner of labor statistics, said another slight rise is expected in October. But he emphasized that the price level has remained unusually stable and is expected to continue to register little change from month to month.

"We see nothing in the picture that appears to suggest a take-off to substantially higher price levels," Myers told a news conference.

The index standing of 128.3 in September compares with the previous record of 128.1 in July. For August, it was 128.

Words and Actions

One service the Arkansas Gazette does perform — when it attacks you then you know you are right as rain.

Sunday, October 22, the Gazette worked me over for the speech I made at Arkadelphia October 19 advocating that recipients of welfare cash grants and surplus commodities be struck off the list of eligible voters.

What particularly irked the Gazette was the switch in my title, "Representation Without Taxation." But these publicly-supported people do pay sales tax, says the Gazette. What a switch that is! Everyone knows that a tax paid out of public funds isn't a tax — it's a discount — meaning, it's the part the poor don't get.

For years the Gazette has painted this editor as an anti-tax man, while the glorious Gazette went on to ever greater heights of public plunder. Actually, I advocated the sales tax in editorials in 1934, and spoke in legislative committee hearing in 1935, just before its enactment. Arkansas Gazette never said an editorial word, and never made a public appearance that I know of.

Upon those who help burden the people with any new tax rests the solemn obligation to see that it is not diverted, and that the rate be kept reasonable. The Gazette, which had no part in initiating the sales tax, and has ignored two decades of diversion of sales tax revenue away from the schools and charities for which it was voted, chooses to call me an "anti-taxer" because I denounced a fraud.

For one thing, the availability of sales tax revenue and the abolishing of the 18-mill ceiling on school taxes caused property assessments to collapse. The situation was so serious that Governor Francis Cherry set up a state-wide committee to prepare a constitutional amendment. I was a member of that committee. Cherry came under attack because of it. The Gazette did not help either the amendment or Cherry. He went down fighting, and I went down with him.

Eight days after Orval Faubus beat Cherry for governor the Arkansas Gazette said the amendment did have merit and Cherry was a good governor!

How can you have good government when you won't support good men?

How can you take seriously the so-called feud between the Gazette and Governor Faubus when Faubus doesn't pretend to be anything but a politician, and the so-called Little Rock state paper elected him by default?

Here in my own town I have printed the sales-tax diversion figures — $60,000 a year to the general funds of Hope and Hempstead county, if Arkansas Gazette has ever told the people of Little Rock and Pulaski county what the score is in its own community I haven't seen the report. Local government isn't altogether to blame, mind you. Cities and counties are limited by the constitution to 5 mills each, while the schools have an unlimited millage.

The result was that assessments became so depressed that the cities and counties went to Little Rock and sandbagged the state for sales tax money to keep out of bankruptcy. I discuss these things. The Gazette does not. The Gazette doesn't dirty its hands with things like petition campaigns. I do. So the Gazette sneers and calls me an "anti-taxer."

The Gazette "deplores" Welfare Commissioner Carl Adams' threat to cut the welfare checks in half if the 3¢ sales tax failed to be confirmed in 1958. That's what the Gazette says in 1961. But in 1958 it didn't say a word. It never says a word that will help this state in time — its deplores is reserved for later... whether it be eight days or three years.

"If," says the Gazette, "reform in welfare is demanded then it must begin with the real offenders and not those exploited."

That's a lily little sentence. But it doesn't mean a thing. How are you going to achieve reform with 21¢ of the people getting public hand-outs and still permitted to vote, and a state newspaper that talks tomorrow but is silent today.

What's wrong with Arkansas besides the Arkansas Gazette? Well, I think we lack a public spirit which, for instance, Virginia does have. The Virginia Commissioner on Constitutional Government has just sent me a pamphlet re-

Opposition to Appeal to Reds Brushed Aside

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Political Committee brushed aside repeated procedural roadblocks today and voted to consider immediately an urgent appeal to the Soviet Union for cancellation of the 50-megaton hydrogen bomb explosion.

By MAX HARRELSON

—A new move was launched today to get urgent U.N. action on an appeal to the Soviet Union to cancel its proposed explosion of a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb.

The move was made by Iranian delegate Mehdi Vakili, one of the sponsors of the eight-nation resolution. He formally called on the General Assembly's main political committee to suspend temporarily its general debate on nuclear testing and to take up the proposed appeal to Moscow immediately.

Previous efforts to give the appeal urgent treatment were stalled by a procedural wrangle touched off by the Soviet bloc. The new strategy of seeking to suspend the general discussion rather than to terminate it was agreed upon by the sponsors this morning.

Sponsors of the proposed appeal are Canada, Sweden, Denmark, Japan, Iceland, Iran, Pakistan and Norway—all countries who feel they are directly threatened by radioactive fallout from Soviet test explosions.

Poultry Price Sagging Is Under Study

JACKSONVILLE, Miss. (AP) — An Agriculture Department official announced Tuesday that a committee will be formed to study the sagging price situation in the poultry industry.

Linley E. Juers, USDA staff economist, told representatives from 11 poultry producing states, including Arkansas, that the department has no legal method for direct action.

The poultry men then discussed procedures involved in setting up a federal marketing program, but no action was taken.

The group did, however, adopt four resolutions aimed at boosting poultry prices above production cost. They urged:

1. That the government and schools buy more poultry for school lunch programs.

2. That the government step up its program to promote export of poultry.

3. That the government include poultry in an expanded surplus commodities program.

4. That poultry producers hold week-by-week production within 1960 production totals.

John Duncan, assistant secretary of agriculture, said the department saw the poultry price problem coming but that legislation to correct the situation failed to pass last spring.

Many poultry raisers who opposed the legislation now are asking how to get prices up, Duncan said.

Reds Must Have Care in Berlin Acts

Associated Press News Analyst
By WILLIAM L. RYAN

BONN, Germany (AP) — Communist interference with Allied civilian movement across Berlin barriers is part of a campaign to destroy the city's four-power status. That is why it is being resisted with U.S. shows of force.

It looks dangerous, but there is reason to believe the Communists are going to be careful in efforts not to let their drive reach the point of an exchange of fire.

This is the point: The Russians are insisting that the Western Allies are in West Berlin only by virtue of agreements governing an occupied city—that is, military agreements.

When the Communists erected a wall between the two parts of Berlin, they sealed off West Berliners from contact with Germans in the East. They continued, however, to concede the access right of the Western Allies.

They evidently intended to enforce their claim that East Berlin no longer is part of occupied territory but actually the sovereign capital of a sovereign state: Communist-ruled East Germany.

The West does not recognize such a claim. The West considers East Germany the Soviet-occupied part of Germany, and East Berlin the Soviet-occupied sector of the city.

If only uniformed personnel of the Allies can cross into the Soviet-occupied sector, then the Allies solely through the tolerance of the East German authorities. They would in effect be obeying the dictates of a ministry of government they profess not to recognize.

It is significant that when a military convoy of U.S. troops shows up and forms an escort, the East German police step aside and let it through though it is escorting civilians previously denied entry.

That is, the Communists recognize only that West Berlin—not all Berlin—is an occupied city. They contend the Allied military personnel's rights of entry are all that must be honored at this time.

The Allies are saying they cannot and will not accede to this.

Troops Alerted Over Right to Enter E. Berlin

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

BERLIN (AP)—All U.S. Army troops in Berlin were placed on general alert for six hours today in the midst of a seething over the right of Americans to enter East Berlin. Ten U.S. tanks were brought up to the wall dividing the city.

At one stage, the Army sent troops with fixed bayonets into East Berlin to enforce American insistence on the right of American civilians to enter the sector. Later the East Germans turned back two U.S. sightseeing buses—and were allowed to get away with it, the Army explained, because women aboard the buses might be imperiled.

East Berlin border guards stepped aside when armed U.S. military police escorted an American civilian car into the Communist sector.

A few hours later the guards refused entry to two U.S. Army sightseeing buses which had no armed escort.

The buses turned back to West Berlin near a spot where American tanks and armored personnel carriers were stationed with guns pointed at the East German police.

The East German police held up the buses carrying U.S. military personnel and civilians for more than an hour demanding that the officer in charge identify his passengers to authorities of the Communist East German regime. The American officer refused.

In an earlier incident the East Germans refused to allow two American civilians in an Army-licensed private car to pass through the checkpoint without identification. But the U.S. command ignored the East Germans and sent the car through with the armed escort in assertion of allied rights to free movement in Berlin.

Then, in a gesture of conciliation, the U.S. commander said it was temporarily restricting the passage of American civilian vehicles into East Berlin.

The announced American restriction on movements to East Berlin apparently applied only to civilian vehicles. The buses were U.S. Army vehicles carrying military personnel, although there were about 20 persons in civilian clothes, including two women, in the lead bus. The second bus had about six passengers in U.S. Air Force uniforms.

Husband Won't Put First Things First

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: All I do is slave and cook. Yet, when my husband courted me, you'd think I was Miss Universe herself—the way he promised the moon, dressed in his Sunday best and took me dancing. Nothing was too good for his gal—or so he said—and all he had was mine.

I wish I'd kept a record for a playback of those promises eight years later. Now he keeps his pay checks to himself. I'm lucky to have a dime in my purse. When I do, it's money my parents sent me. The bills are paid, when and if, by my no-account man. He does the shopping. Won't trust me! Should any of our four children need medicine he says, "Wait till I catch up with the bills."

One child is ailing most of the time and needs polio shots this very day. If it weren't for my parents and friends the kids would have no Santa Claus or birthday presents. This excuse for a husband claims I nag him but brings it on himself by refusing to put first things first. If I had a dollar for every time I've considered divorce I would be rich but—there are the four small children to consider and their father is the type who would quit his job rather than pay for their, or my, support. What can I do—Mrs. X.

Dear Mrs. X.: Your husband's reluctance to recognize you as a partner in marriage indicates that he is still a child emotionally; the type who pouts if questioned and, who, at all costs, wants his own way.

Mutual respect is essential if marriage is to be a success. And, with four children to consider, it is your duty to make this marriage a success! It is no use mourning the courting days. Prove your own maturity by adjusting yourself to conditions as they are, in the hope of bettering them. Be patient. Talk, reason and work with your husband, not against him. Make it your business to understand one another. And, above all, don't nag!

wedding. My nephew knew everybody. I knew nobody. He made no effort to introduce me nor did he invite me to dance after dinner. He says I should have asked him. Who was right—Auntie!

Dear Auntie: Your nephew, like many young people, was thoughtless. Certainly it would have been courteous to see that you met his friends and had a whirl or two on the dance floor but, since he didn't bring you, it wasn't his duty to squire you around. Strictly speaking that was the obligation of the hosts, in this case, the bride's parents. But guests have an obligation too. As in life, they should show initiative. Circulate, talk, be friendly, helpful, instead of a bump on a log. Make people glad you came!

Memo to Boy-Lover: Stay out of that boy's car and there will be no sealing problem. Any girl who goes just for the ride is asking for trouble. Make it a four-some and have a destination.

Send your problems to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope and address her care of this newspaper. Helpful leaflets available. Write for "Are You Sensitive?"

Riots in Africa

BULAWAYO, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — At least one African was killed and a white photographer was beaten and stoned Monday night as Africans rioted for the second successive night in Bulawayo.

The fight was the latest in a series of incidents, most of which took place near a hotel where leaders of the National Democratic party were holding a four-day congress. The African nationalist group ended its session Monday night with a call to defy a government ban on meetings in rural areas.

General Killed

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—A communist power pole which workers were removing fell across a jeep in which Maj. Gen. Chang Shu-Kung was a passenger Monday night. The general died this morning.

NEW YORK (AP)—Somewhere in New York there is a bold thief with two .38 caliber revolvers and two sets of handcuffs.

The equipment was stolen Monday from patrolmen's lockers at the East 35th Street station.

Needed Back Door

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) - Officers said Michael Karpan had equipped a gambling parlor with everything needed for a successful operation—except a back door.

Detective Sgt. Joe Gorman said a room behind Karpan's grocery had a mirror peephole in the door a warning buzzer connected to the front of the store and other furnishings worth about $10,000.

But when a vice squad broke through the door the nine persons inside had no way out. Karpan, 39, was charged with operating a gambling game.

Was the First Lady Century Too Soon

By JOY MILLER

AP Women's Editor

NEW YORK (AP) - The first lady was panicky. Because of her efforts in a worthy project—refurbishing the White House—she had got herself into an embarrassing predicament.

Even before her husband had taken office she had expressed concern over the executive mansion's shabby condition and was anxious to put "new things in the place of old." As she explained: "No one has the interest of the place more at heart than myself."

Accompanied by her sister—who had disdained the White House furniture as looking "as if it had been brought in by the first president"—she made shopping forays to New York and Philadelphia.

By the time she had placed orders here and there to her satisfaction she discovered she had exceeded by a third the congressional appropriation.

Panicky, afraid to face her husband, she begged an administration official to get the President's approval of the bill. She pleaded, tearfully, that she was afraid he would try to pay the excess charges out of his pocket, and he couldn't afford it. After all, it was $6,700.

For her dreams of White House beautification, Mary Todd Lincoln the distraught shopper, was first lady a century too soon.

Her great budget crisis, as detailed in the recently published "Conversations with Lincoln" by Charles M. Segal, came in December 1861.

But today the first lady, assisted by a fine arts committee has inspired interior decorators, organizations and wealthy families to press forward with priceless Americana for making the White House a national showplace.

Costs are cited that would have made Mrs. Lincoln tremble with disbelief. For example, redecoration of the diplomatic reception room has a $12,500 price tag.

The total 1961 congressional appropriation was a meager $30,000 which Mrs. Lincoln exceeded by $6,700, to the president's towering wrath.

Camden Is Big Favorite to Wallop Hope

By WICK TEMPLE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Fort Smith-Little Rock Hall game Friday night is a dream for a football fan in a nightmare for a forecaster.

With the Big Nine Conference title and the No. 1 ranking in the state riding on the outcome, plus retention of an unbeaten record, it is impossible to predict how two high school teams will react.

Fort Smith has done a better job of beating the seven teams on its victim list. But Little Rock Hall has won the close ones, and some say that's the mark of a good football team.

Happily for the forecaster, that game is one of the few in the state this week that promise a close fight. In most of the other games, the "haves" are playing the "have nots."

With a 15 of 20 score last week and a season average of .741, here's a look at this week's work:

Fort Smith 14, Little Rock Hall 10. The Grizzlies have shown a more varied offense and have been more consistent all the way around. Hall has a great quarterback and an outstanding place-kicker in Jerry Bass, but the Grizzlies don't figure on letting the Warriors get close enough to kick to victory.

Blytheville 19, Hot Springs 0. Blytheville has too much defense for the lowly Trojans.

EL DORADO 20, Texarkana 6. The 21-0 victory over Central should inspire the Wildcats.

PINE BLUFF 13, North Little Rock. This one may be closer than the records indicate.

A look around Class AA—Subiaco 7, Little Rock Catholic 0. (Thursday) Catholic High points for Mabelvale.

Fayetteville 16, Springfield Hillcrest 13. David Oliphant's toe gives the Bulldogs their third victory in three weeks over Missouri opposition.

Harrison 13, Siloam Springs 0. Harrison should be made after the 6-0 loss to Rogers.

Springdale 20, Rogers 7. Rogers still doesn't have enough for the Bulldogs, who don't figure to lose again.

Van Buren 27, Morrilton 13. A warmup for the Pointers for next week's showdown with Fayetteville.

Stuttgart 13, Forrest City 7. Among the better ones in the state this week. Stuttgart's 9-7 loss to tough Helena last week makes the Richbirds look good.

Helena 21, Wynne 0. Wynne has lost four straight and Helena is unbeaten in 2AA play.

Jonesboro 27, Conway 6. The Hurricane gets revenge against a Conway team that is having an off year.

Newport 7, Searcy 6. Figuring that Searcy can't beat two Class AA teams in two weeks.

Paragould 14, Pocahontas 0. Could be worse.

West Memphis 12, Mifflin 1. Tenn. 0. West Memphis looked good in consecutive victories over Wynne and Newport.

Benton 20, Jacksonville 7. The 3AA title game might have been a better game if Benton hadn't lost to Hall last week. Now the Panthers are riled.

Russellville 7, Malvern 0. Among the scattered good ones. A top-10 Camden 30, Hope 6. Unbeaten Camden may be down, though, after the victory over Pine Bluff.

Magnolia 13, Camden Fairview 7. A tossup among tailenders.

Smackover 21, Crossett 0. The Bucks won't take any chances on a slipup before they get a shot at Camden for the 4AA title.

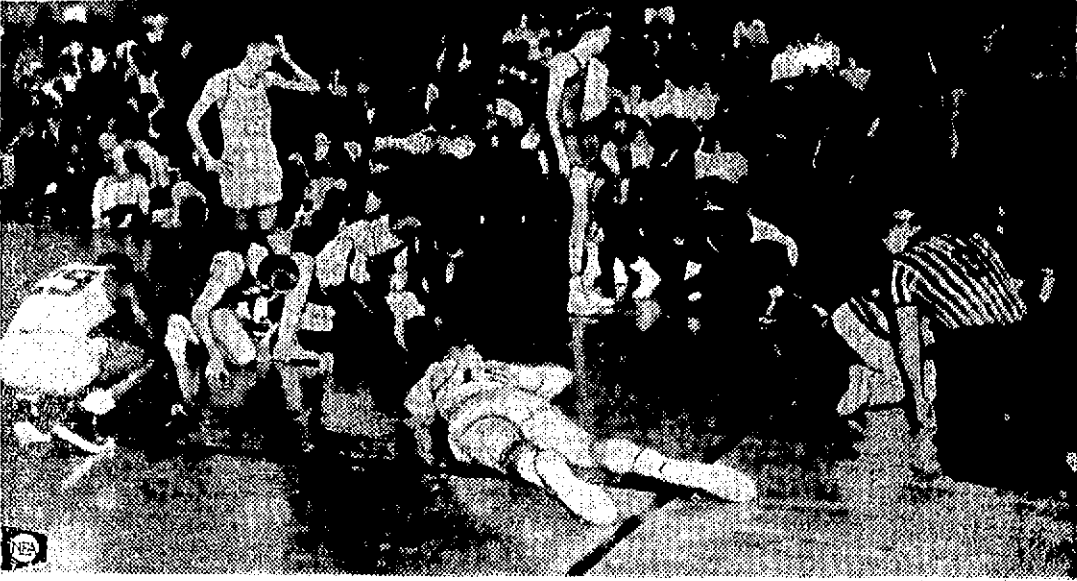

Spanish-American War Vet Dies

HOPE SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—William Alexander Davis, state commander of the Spanish-American War veterans, died here today. He was 84.

Davis, a native of Colesburg, N.C., had lived in Hope Springs the last 37 years.

Survivors include his widow.

The largest ant colonies are estimated to number a million or so inhabitants. The whole population would weigh about as much as a man.

WHERE OH WHERE?—Boston Celtics and Syracuse National make a combined team effort in search for contact lens belonging to Celtics' Tom Sanders during benefit exhibition game in Worcester. With all present pitching in, the glasses were soon found.

AMERICAN STYLING INFLUENCE?—The new model Russian passenger car, "Chaika," is shown in Moscow. Wings and hood have been redesigned by the Gorky factory, and the Chaika faintly resembles some U.S. cars: Double headlights, slight tail fins, covered rear wheel well, chrome body trim, smart grill, and a buggy whip-type radio antenna.

LADY'S FIRST—Bespoke E. V. Parlyuk has both feet off the ground as the Russian miss breaks the tape to win the women's 800-meter run in a dual meet with England in London's White City Stadium record time of 2:06.

No Trouble About a Dinner Speaker

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—There is no problem in getting a dinner speaker in Alabama these days. Just ask your congressman.

Alabama's congressmen are hungry—vote hungry; and the fare in next May's Democratic primary elections will be different from any they've ever had.

Alabama is losing one of its nine representatives because of population shifts, and the May elections are to decide, in effect, which one goes.

The Alabama Legislature, failing to redistrict the state, came up with what is called the "98 plan" in a quick special session last summer.

The plan calls for each of the present nine districts to nominate a candidate in the first primary. The nominees then must run in a statewide primary. The top clear resources would still be in the ninth will be out. Nomination as a Democrat is tantamount to election in Alabama.

JFK Tough Talks Now, But How Long

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has now talked very tough to Russia but whether this is just a flash-in-the-pan or the beginning of a new policy of toughness remains to be seen.

For months Premier Khrushchev, while demanding the Allies back up on Berlin, has waved his nuclear weapons and cut loose with a whole series of tests. He has been the tough one.

President Kennedy, by comparison, has been mild. In the past couple of months some Republican critics have complained he wasn't firm enough, even suggesting he was an appeaser. This reportedly, got under the President's skin.

Last week Khrushchev topped things off by announcing Russia soon would explode a 50-megaton nuclear bomb which would dwarf previous blasts. Monday Russia exploded two nuclear devices—one of them described by the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission as possibly as high as 50 megatons but more likely about 30 megatons.

American officials—Secretary of State Dean Rusk, for instance—professed to see no practical reason for such an explosion although one simple explanation seems to be reasonable enough: Khrushchev is doing this as a terror tactic.

Saturday night, as if replying to this tactic, Roswell L. Gilpatric, deputy secretary of defense, made the toughest speech delivered by any Pentagon official since Kennedy took office.

The speech was first approved by Rusk and the White House. The administration took pains beforehand to let newsmen know the speech had this approval to show Gilpatric was talking for the administration.

Gilpatric not only said the United States is superior to Russia in nuclear weapons—he went into some detail to explain why—but warned the Soviets that if they start a nuclear war, even with a sneak attack, this country's nuclear resources would still be powerful enough to wipe them out.

This kind of talk would have had a much greater impact here and abroad if someone higher up the official ladder in the administration—like Kennedy, Rusk or Defense Secretary Robert McNamara—had delivered it.

But, even though it came from a lesser official like Gilpatric, the fact that the administration let it be known he had full approval got the point across.

This speech serves to fry several kinds of fish:

1. Just in case Khrushchev has any doubts about American power—and officials here don't think he does—the Gilpatric speech would set him straight.

2. Khrushchev has been making propaganda hay—in trying to impress the world with Russia's power—and the Gilpatric speech may take some of the edge off it.

3. It is also a nudge to American allies, particularly in Europe, if they suspected American weakness because Kennedy didn't try to match Khrushchev in waving nuclear weapons.

4. It may take some of the steam out of the complaint by some Republicans that Kennedy hasn't been tough enough.

Unless the Gilpatric talk is the beginning of a consistently tough Kennedy policy this one effort isn't apt to mean much since Khrushchev can be expected to continue with his own tough line.

The fact that Kennedy and Rusk let a lower-echelon man like Gilpatric do the talking in this case—instead of one of them—can still be interpreted as something less than an all-out willingness by the administration to be tough.

Fishing Around Arkansas Lakes

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Here is a fishing forecast from the Arkansas Game and Fish Commission:

TOBACCO TALES by Sander

Growing tobacco requires more hand labor than any other crop. An acre of bright tobacco produces about 170,000 leaves. Each leaf is examined as many as 10 times before being hand picked!

John Rolfe, who planted the first American crop, is rightly called "the father of U.S. Tobacco." Pocahontas would thus be its "mother"—She married Rolfe!

AMPHORA, by far the most popular pipe tobacco in its class, is a mild Cavendish manufactured in Holland by Douwe Egberts Royal Factories, tobacco manufacturers for more than 200 years. It is imported into the U.S. solely by Romick's International Tobacco Co.

NCAA Takes Up Cage Scandals

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Collegiate Athletic Association still smarting under the basketball scandals of last March, aimed today to tighten the regulations on college players to the extent that they will be completely shielded from outside influences.

The powerful 18-man council of the NCAA—a body which rarely, if ever, is questioned by the organization, Tuesday adopted four amendments to NCAA rules which would tighten the holds on college players.

The four amendments will be presented with the council's backing at the annual NCAA convention in Chicago on Jan. 11-13. They are almost certain to be passed.

The amendments are:

1. The barring of all outside basketball competition, including the summer leagues.

"Originally," said Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, "the recommendation was to bar the players from summer competition. But the council heard a report from the gambling committee which recommended all outside competition, and decided to adopt it."

2. A pre-registration rule that athletes from engaging in varsity competition until he has been in residence in a college two years if he decides to transfer after registering at an institution.

"We have been concerned with athletes transferring from junior colleges and starting varsity competition," said Byers.

3. Transfer rule that would require an athlete to be in residence in the school to which he transfers for one year before he can engage in varsity competition.

4. A recommendation that an athlete suspended from a college for disciplinary or academic reasons must complete two years of satisfactory work to be eligible for varsity competition in another school. The present rule is one year.

Porks Work in Pads for Louisianians

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—

The Arkansas Razorbacks put their pads back on today for one rough session of readying for Northwest Louisiana, Saturday night's foe in Little Rock.

Coach Frank Broyles drilled the hogs in sweat clothes Tuesday and stressed fundamentals.

"The Texas game showed we were poor on fundamentals," Broyles said. "I think everyone was embarrassed enough Saturday to know what we have to do."

Arkansas took Monday off to recuperate from a bruising 33-7 defeat by Texas.

Northwest Louisiana's team will be reviewed today by Asst. Coach Barry Switzer who scouted the unbeaten Demons in their last two games. Northwest is a solid small college team, but the game is regarded as a breather for the Porks.

Law Change Didn't Alter Authority

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A 1961 revision of nursing home laws did not alter the state's authority to suspend licenses at any time, the attorney general's office held Tuesday.

Dr. J. T. Herron, state health officer, sought the opinion. He said one nursing home operator contended new laws tied the state's hands on revoking licenses until Jan. 1, 1962.

The Health Department earlier this week revoked the license of the Haven of Hope home at Russellville, effective Nov. 10.

In another opinion, the attorney general's office ruled that state law requires incorporated cities to hold elections every two years and so city officials cannot thwart a write-in candidate by refusing to hold an election. The ruling went to Lee Piles, a member of the Sebastian County Election Commission.

An opinion to Sen. Doug Bradley of Jonesboro said school districts cannot exchange territory without approval of voters.

Picks Alabama, Texas, Iowa, Irish, Tech

NEW YORK (AP)—There's nothing like money in the bank—unless it is in your pocket. And a $1 bet on each of the 57 games a week ago would have netted you $31 on the basis of 44 correct picks and 13 losses.

With no assurance that this week's choices will be as profitable.

Michigan State over Indiana: It is the Spartans homecoming game and that should be enough to keep top-ranked Michigan State alert even though the Hoosiers will be at full strength for the first time in a month.

Mississippi over Vanderbilt: Old Miss has permitted only 13 points in five games while piling up 157.

Ohio State over Wisconsin: One of these Saturday's Ron Miller, the Badger loser, is going to get hot and embarrass everyone but doubt it will happen at the expense of the Buckeyes. You can see for yourself on TV.

Texas over Rice: Four reasons for this pick—Jerry Cook, Jimmy Saxton, Ray Poage and Tommy Ford.

Alabama over Houston: But the Crimson Tide will have more trouble than in last week's 34-3 rout with Tennessee.

Iowa over Purdue: The Hawkeyes' new passing combine of Mat Szykowsky to Cloyd Webb will prevail in a squeaker.

Louisiana State over Florida: The Bengals keep building for that climactic struggle next week with Mississippi.

Notre Dame over Northwestern: The Irish feel they should have beaten Michigan State last week and will take it out on Northwestern.

Elsewhere in other major games:

Georgia Tech over Tulane, Colorado over Oklahoma, Penn State over California, Missouri over Nebraska, Pittsburgh over Navy, Minnesota over Michigan, Maryland over South Carolina, Southern California over Illinois, Utah State over Idaho.

License Revoked

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The state Health Department has revoked the license of Haven of Hope Nursing Home here effective Nov. 10. Carl Adams, welfare, commissioner, said conditions at the home were not sanitary and patients were not getting proper care.
